

Submission Guidelines

We at the Space Arbitration Blog are delighted to receive manuscripts from authors who are passionate about space law and arbitration. Your contributions are highly valued, and we appreciate the time and effort you invest in creating content for our blog. To ensure that your submission meets our standards and resonates with our audience, we kindly ask you to consider the following guidelines when preparing your manuscript.

Guidelines for Submission

1. Content Focus

We encourage blog posts that present clear views and propose innovative solutions to existing legal issues in space arbitration. Posts that identify, describe, and analyze unexplored legal issues in this field are also highly appreciated. The goal is to foster a stimulating debate and contribute to the ongoing development of space arbitration.

2. Word Count

The maximum word count for blog posts is 1,500 words, including references. This limit ensures that the content is concise, focused, and accessible to our readers.

3. Reference Style

We prefer references to be included as hyperlinks within the text. For example, you might link to an article like this: Mining Space Resources: Where Are We Now?.

4. Structure and Subheadings

Please include subheadings where appropriate. This helps to organize the content, making it easier for readers to follow your argument and engage with the material. Subheadings should be clear and relevant to the content that follows.

5. Submission Format

Manuscripts should be submitted to us in a Word document format (.doc or .docx). This allows for easier editing and formatting, ensuring that your post is presented in the best possible way on our website.

We appreciate your cooperation in following these guidelines and look forward to reading your insightful contributions to the field of space arbitration. If you have any questions or need further assistance, please feel free to contact us.
